This is one of my favourite VR experiences. Due to the heavy light pollution in my city, I never get to see the night sky so I was excited to give this a try. I was not disappointed!! Its relaxing, and beautiful. I love how I have the option of changing the music and how fast the night sky moves. The bonus is seeing some Aurora in the night sky. This is better than a planetarium that I've been to in my city, I highly recommend this to anyone who is into night skies and planetariums!. HomestarVR is much better than I thought. It is really a planetarium in VR:

It simulates stars, planets and moon, like a basic version of stellarium. You can set the date and time for a location. The Planetarium mode has audio tours for the season skies. The locations in Starry sky are beautiful and come with background sound fx and relaxing music.

Constellation lines and names, and almost everything else, are optional and can be turned on or off in the settings in all three modes.

The software can be controlled while resting in bed with head movement+trigger.
